Julie Martin

A good friend
even though she kinda-sorta-sorta-kinda-was stole my boyfriend.
But what the heck.
right?/right

Love,
Tammi

P.S. I owe ya
one!

Julie,
You are a swell swell person. I'm so glad that I've known you for so long!
Julie good luck in the rams are . . .

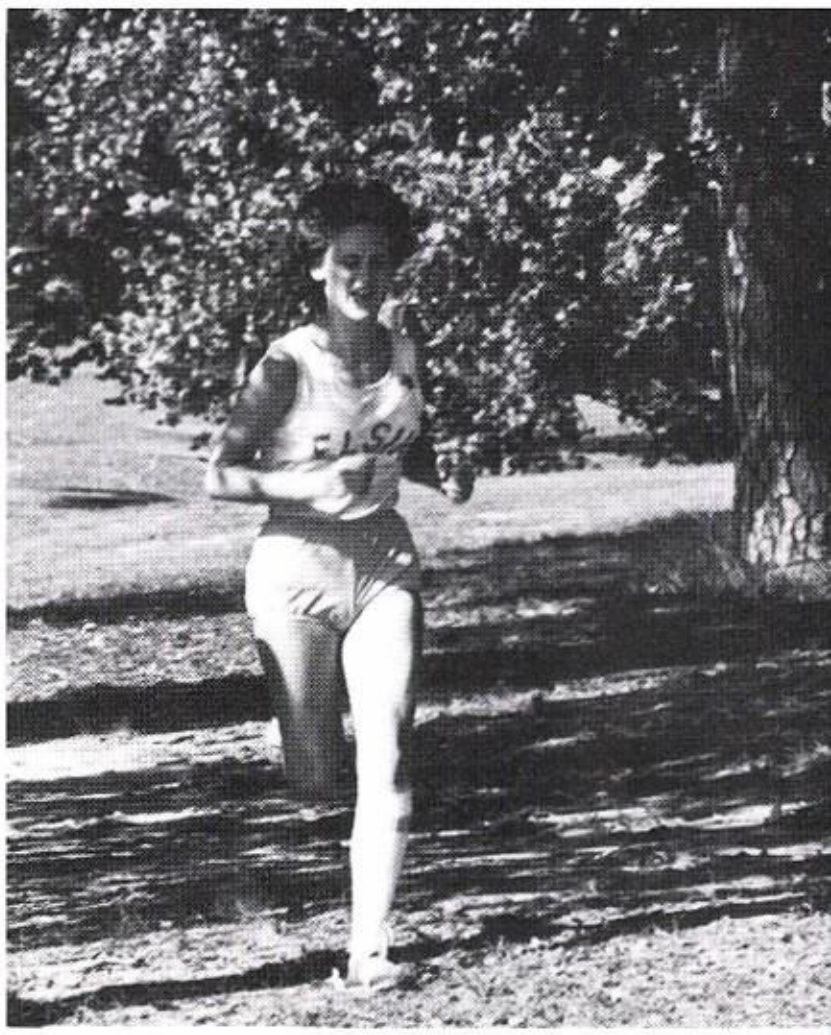
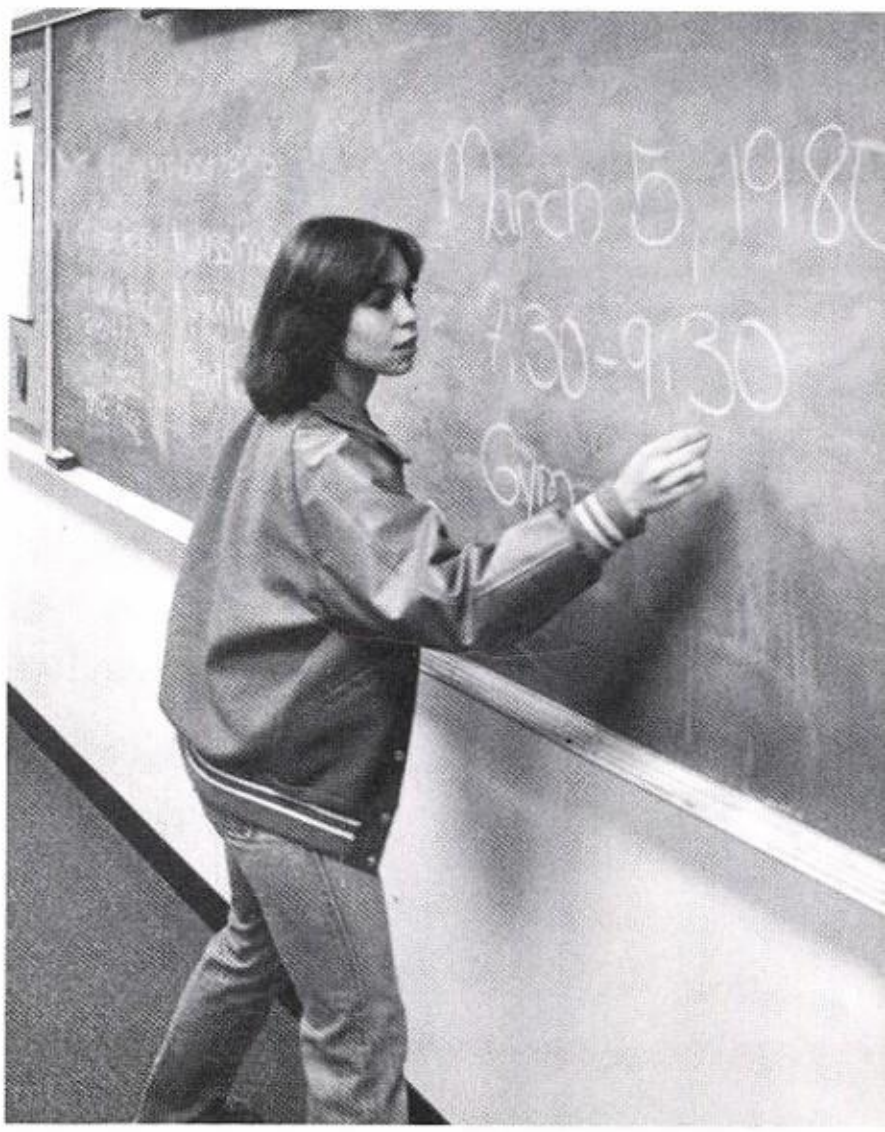
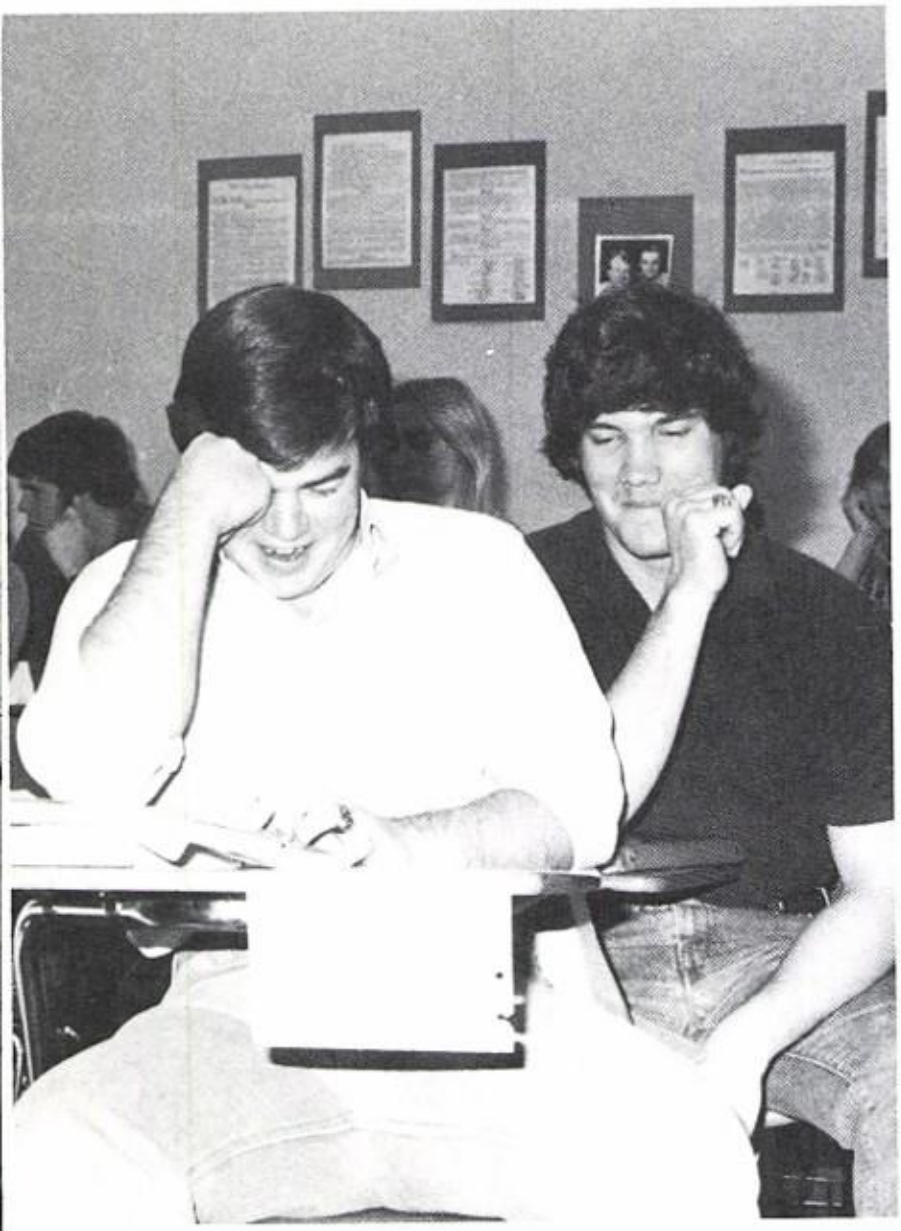
competing,

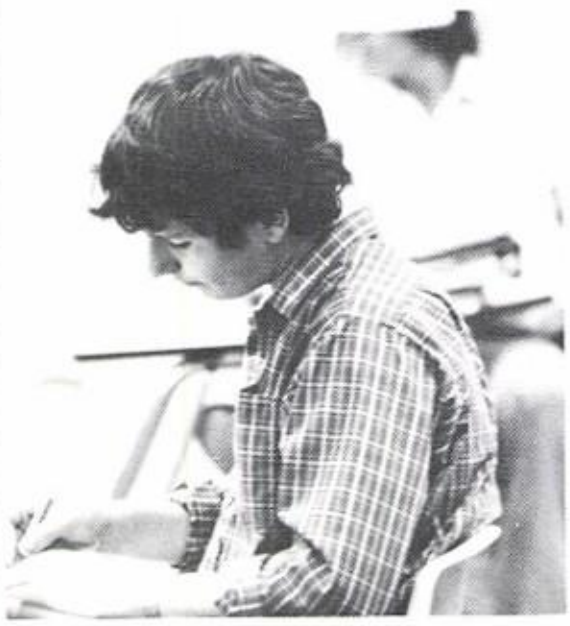


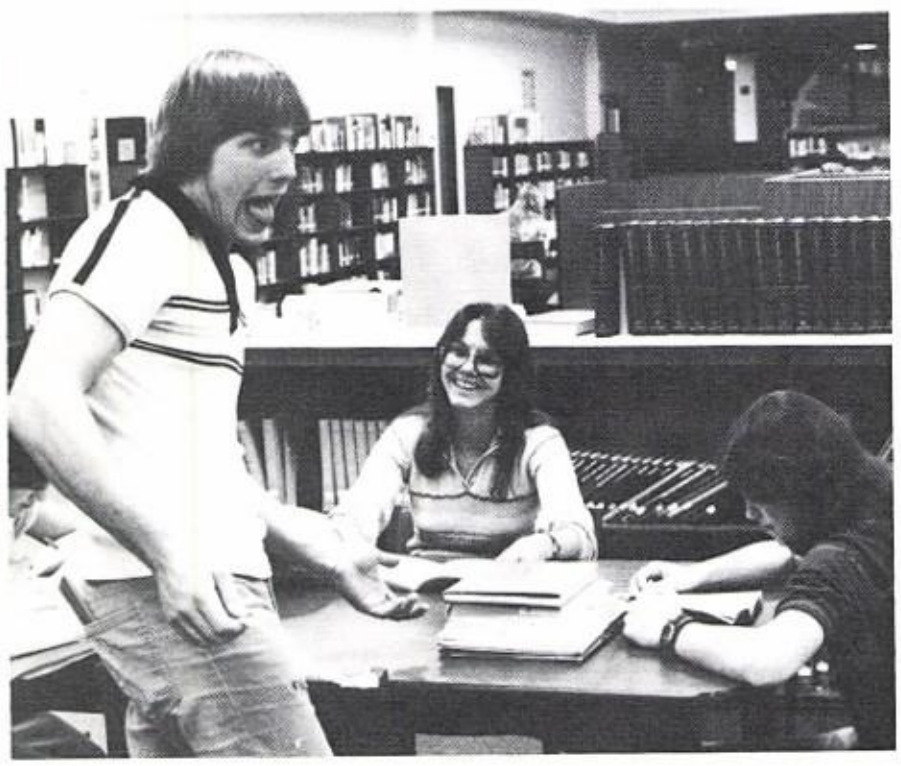
winning,

teaching,



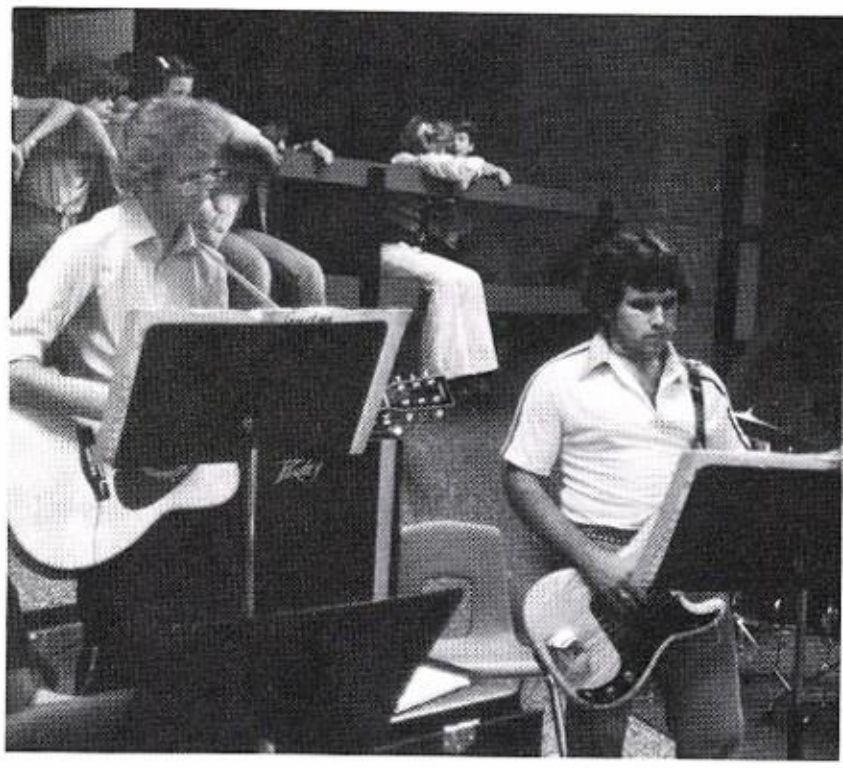


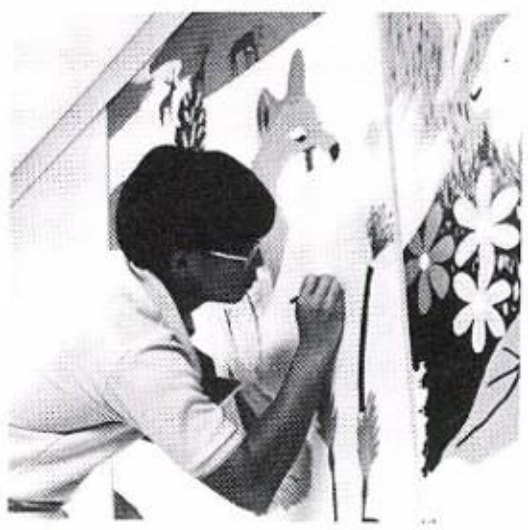


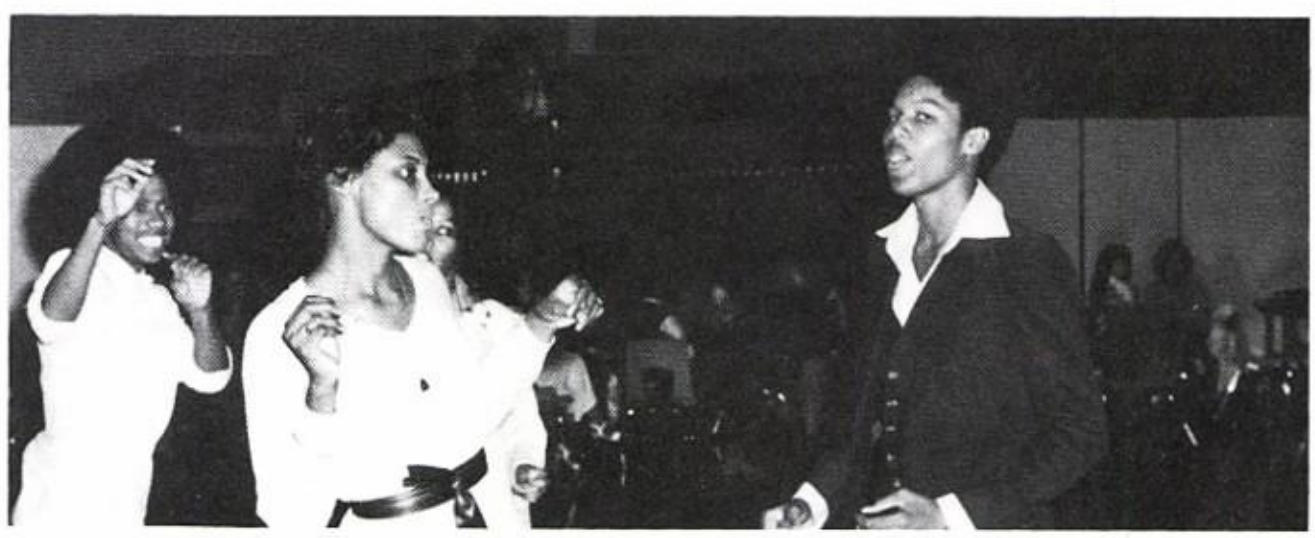


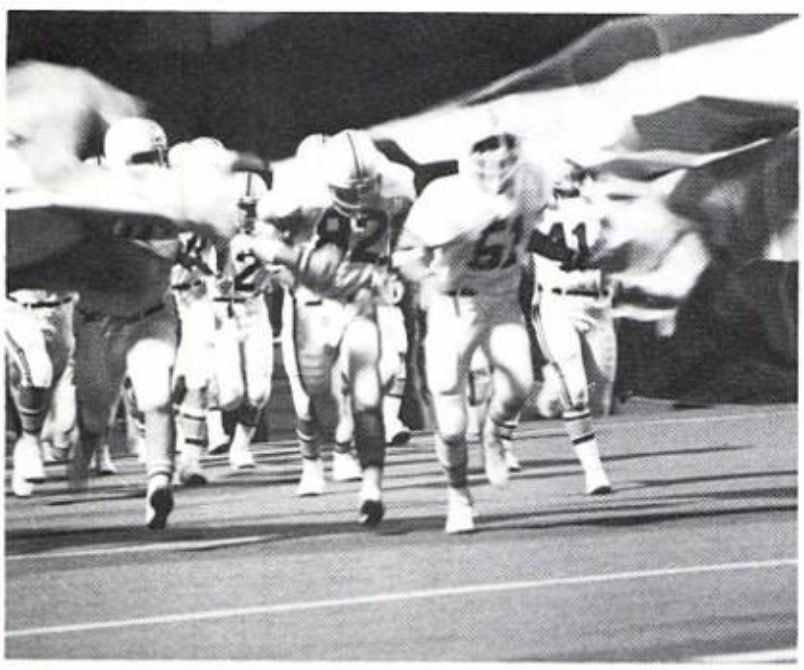
learning,

achieving,









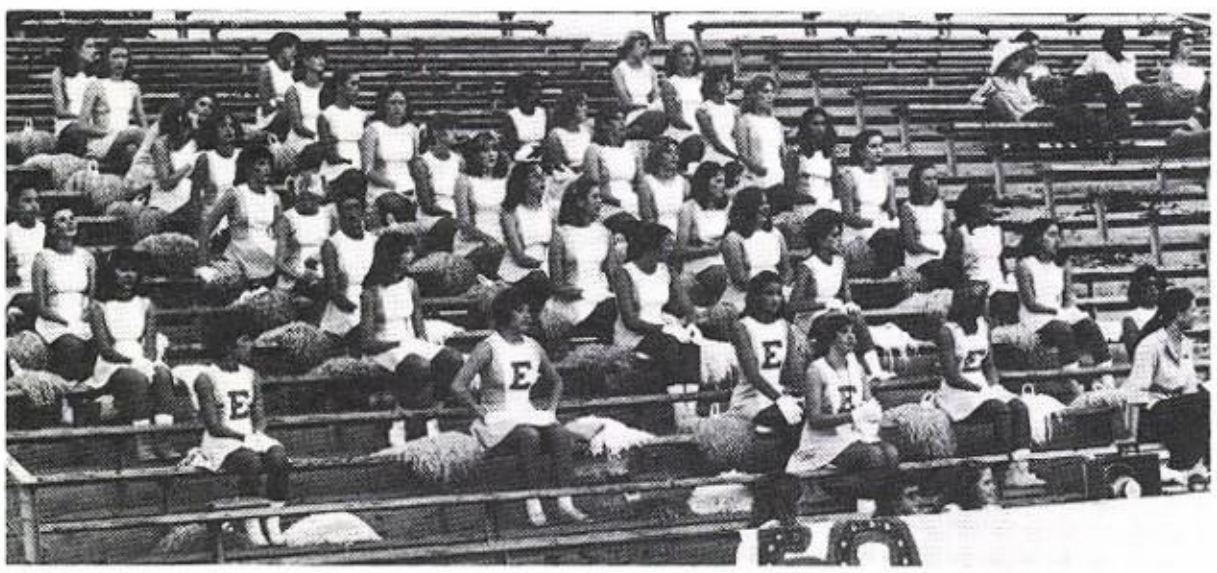
. . . on the move!

for you, rams

the ram pride shows through.

the band keeps the beat for the rams.

rocky ram — the name says it all.



the youngest of the ram bunch.

they were ram fans through thick and thin.

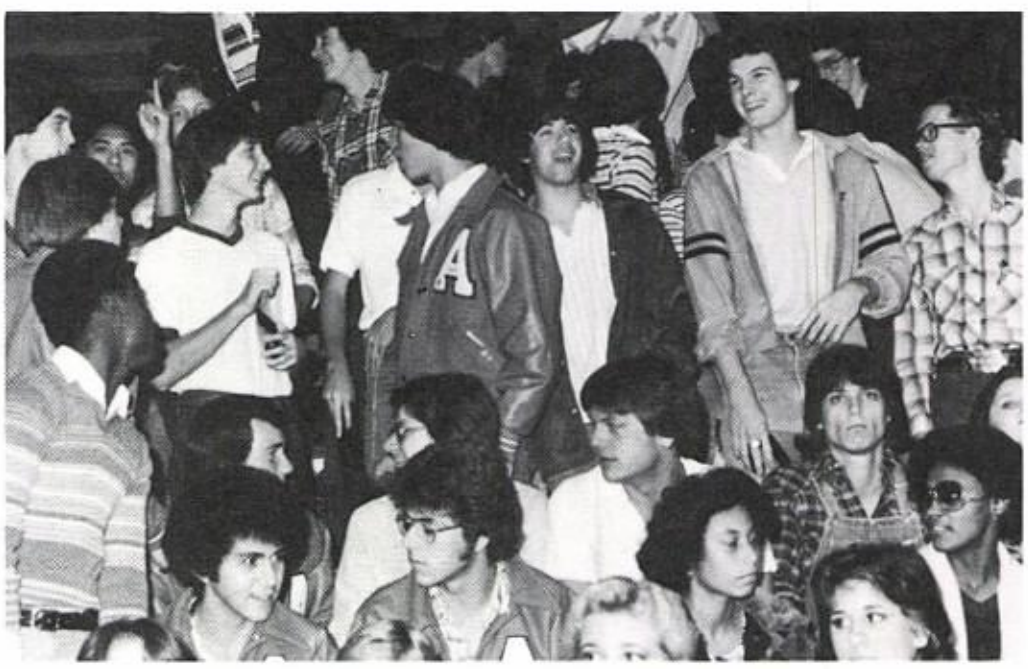
two of the many disco rams.

our faithful faculty.

we held our spirit up through it all . . .

with their help.

they were tough but the rams loved them.



the hoopsters — a bunch of rowdy rams.

it is all part of the rams dedication.

elsik participation has always been excellent. the excellence has not come from the majority of the school, but from the dedicated supporters of the rams. the true ram fans are outnumbered but they compensate for this by working twice as hard, yelling and cheering twice as loud and, smiling smiles that shine with elsik pride.

the activities

anything goes for a good cause

"don't ask questions, just stick them together." — valerie summers demonstrating this obstacle course really excites valerie summers.

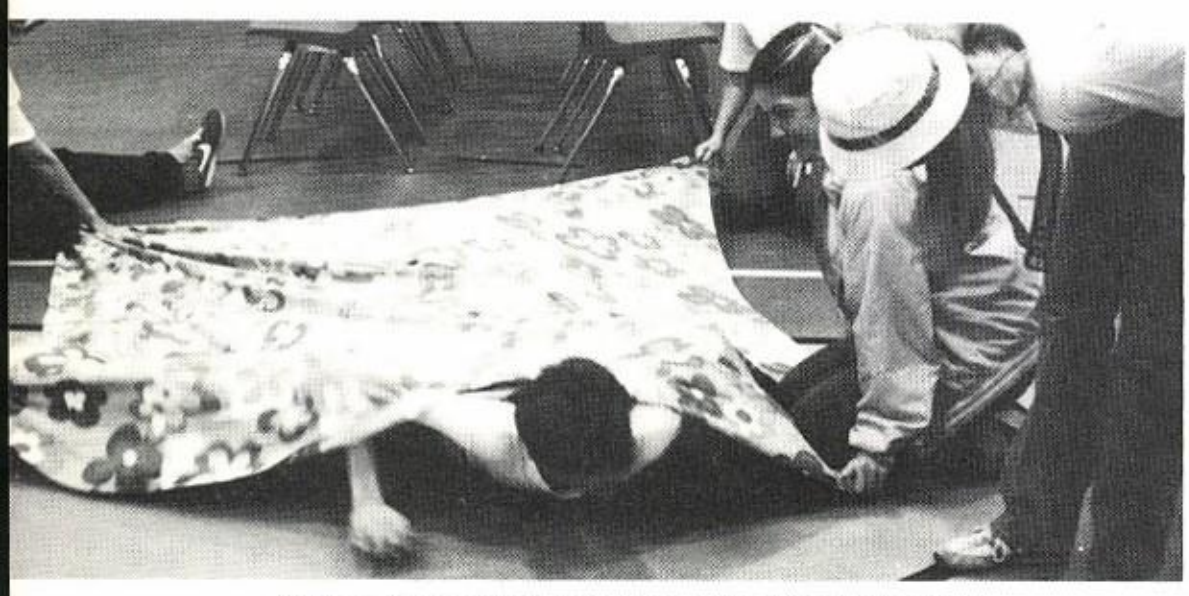
shoes only a penny a pair. bluelight special attracts many.



"this is almost anything goes, not a slumber party!"

"i learned how to do this in the second grade." — theresa swift cheerleading is a natural high for seniors lisa loomis and leslie bowland.

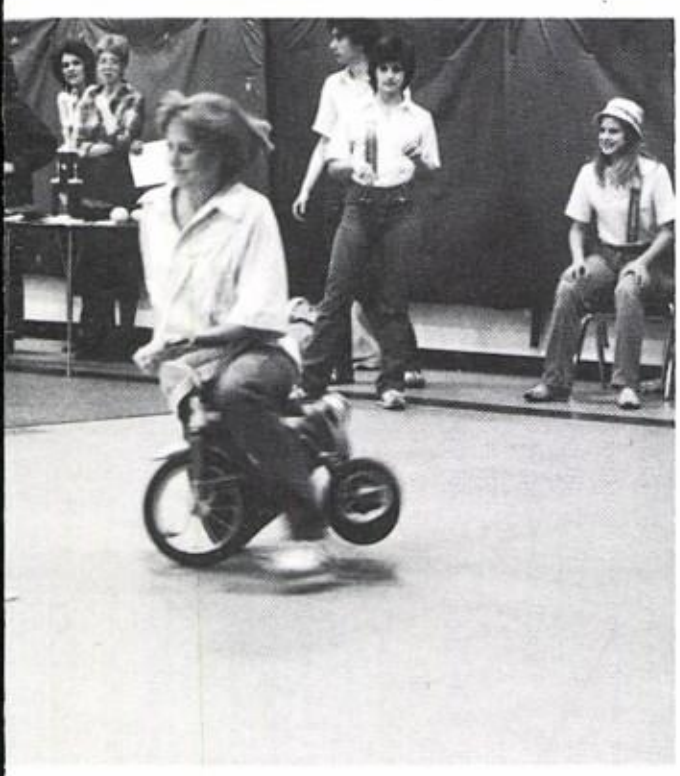
"couldn't we find a more comfortable position?" — bill papadopoulos and phyllis kiser



"i don't know what the problem is, my trike at home takes the curves just fine." — karen kane

"if we're lucky the cans will get crushed and we won't have to use them anymore." — lora parker, d'lynne harwell, debra sherrod, and lynn adkins

"come on red, you have to be the anchor on the tug of war team." — gary gibbs and jeff phillips anything from your average clothes, changing relay to an under-the-blanket swim went this year at elsik's second annual almost anything goes. all procedes collected were donated to jerry's kids with muscular dystrophy. although the pep rally scheduled for the event was cancelled because of apathy, the participation was high and the project was a big success. when asked how he felt about the project and the enthusiasm towards it, jimmy sumruld said, "everyone should give their support because if our money only buys one new wheel chair it will be worth all the effort."

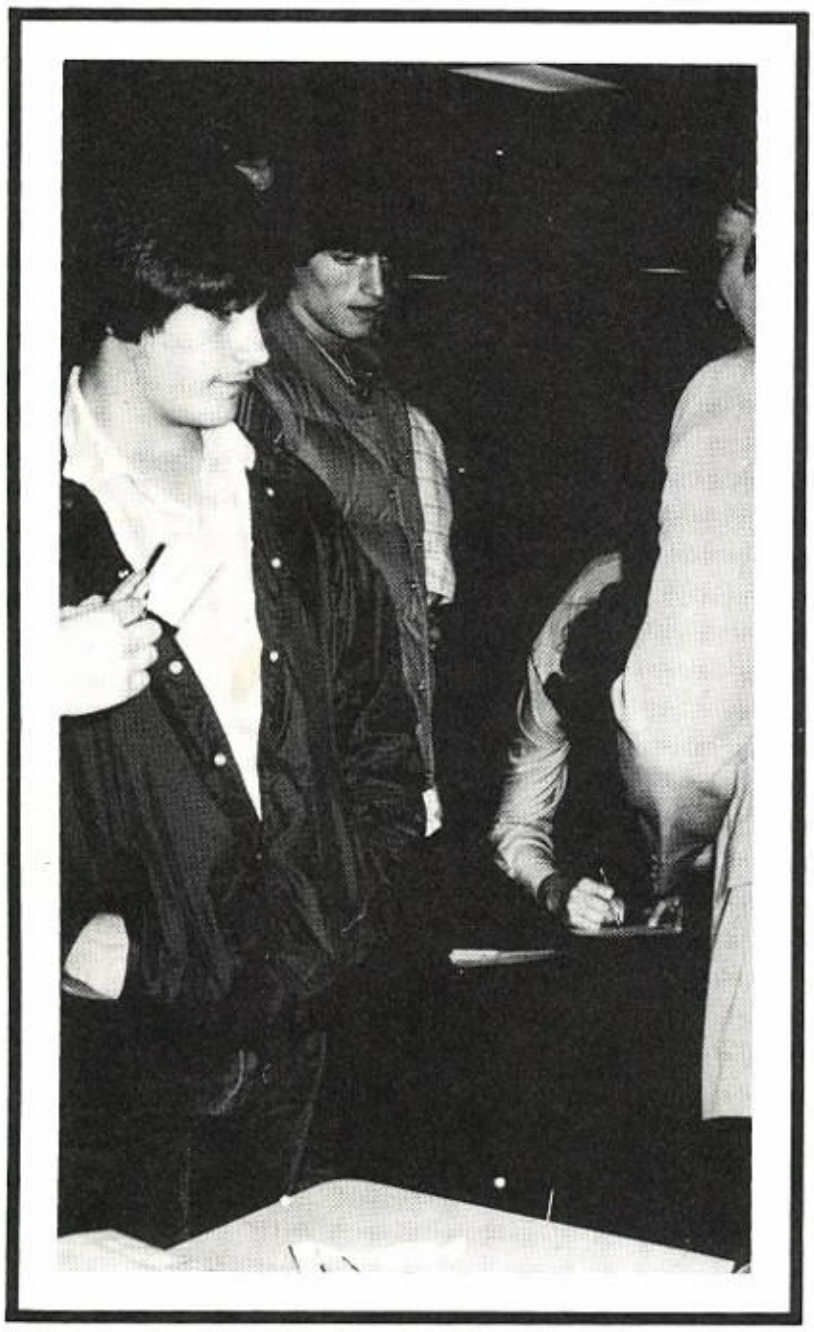
juniors do the twist



three hundred seventy-five dollars, you've got to be kidding! — sam doolittle i can't believe he cut in front of us! — cory andrews and parris watson i wonder what number i am? — kenneth franks and debby pierce you're supposed to turn my ring not my whole finger! — jervaise bauer why did you put a picture of yourself on your ring asks phyllis watkins to todd kirkendall.

pointing to where it's at, monica gildone and kelly northcutt show off their rings.

laughing cheerfully, dorrie morris turns thyra bergenheim's ring.

oh, no! i forgot what number i was on says cathy mc dowell.

1981 senior class rings.

the twist turn tradition came to life again on december 10 as anxious juniors received their rings. along with the excitement of "showing off" their prized possession, the juniors felt one step closer to becoming seniors.

we are from elsik and proud of it!

e-l-s-i-k, the ram band spells it out in their own special way!

"performance at its best." — varsity cheerleaders shouting their class yell, the sophomores go for the spirit stick.

"if you got it, flaunt it!" — shawn smith, kevin brown, and gus aljure the theme from popeye is played by the band, as the team captain approaches the mic. — ram band the crowd's attention is drawn towards the varsity cheerleaders as they stack up with spirit.

there are only two high schools in our town — alief and elsik!

shaking their groove thing — scott schumacher, robert alvarez, curtis hall, denis gavlik, and mark bias

"i can't believe the battalion copied our routine." — revies clapping to the beat, seniors show their super spirit.

as the result of much hard work, j.v. cheerleaders do a superior job.

full figured guys find balancing a big challenge — junior powder puff cheerleaders.

the "untouchables" leave the scene of the crime. — lisa ford, thyra bergenheim, and dorrie morris hang it up hastings — rocky ram (shelly zwick)

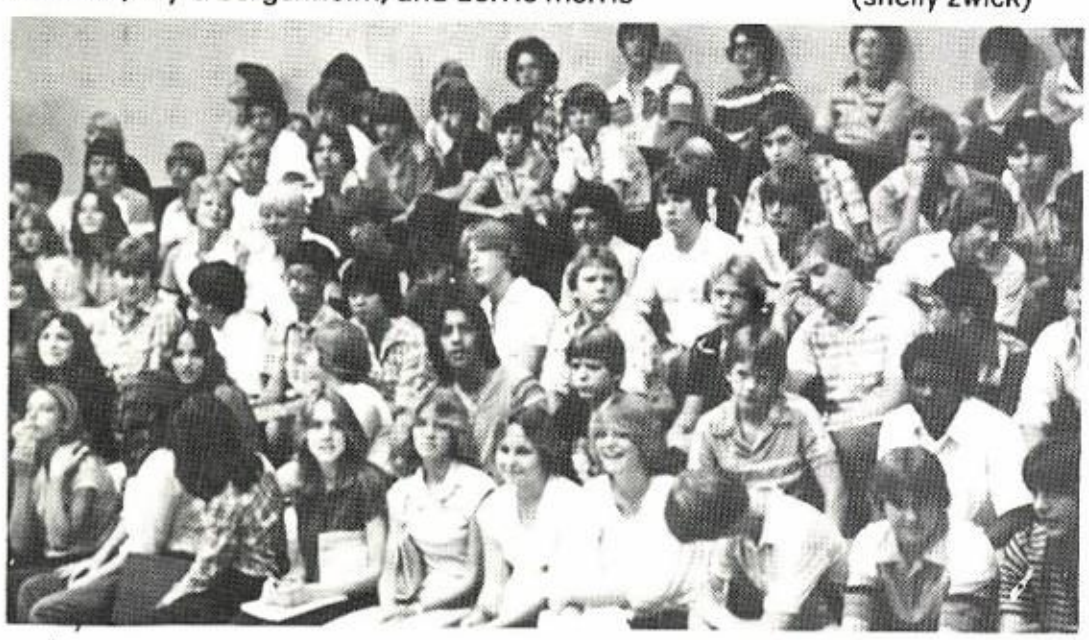
t•o•u•c•hdown, touchdown! — sherri suhr and laura wright



"who spread it around that there was a pep rally this morning?" — freshmen class

"we just have to win the spirit stick this week." — faculty members ". . . and a special thanks to my mom and dad who made it all possible." — tim clark, junior the bandaged bear expresses the battalion's feelings about the big game.

the three musketeers — in concert, juniors bubba ray, tim morris, and marc hayden.

waiting patiently for the next cheer. — freshmen class the pride of alief makes a grand entrance.

"we're from elsik and proud of it!" — varsity football team the pride and enthusiasm shared by everyone throughout the year made our pep rallies a big success. on the morning of a game, the gym would quickly fill with students and teachers, eagerly awaiting the arrival of the cheerleaders and the football team. with the start of the fight song the cheerleaders would run into the gym as a roar of chants soon filled the air. although the season was an endless struggle for the rams, the support and loyalty of their fans and friends never ceased.

homecoming

1979-1980 homecoming queen — phyllis kiser half time boogie — blue bombers.

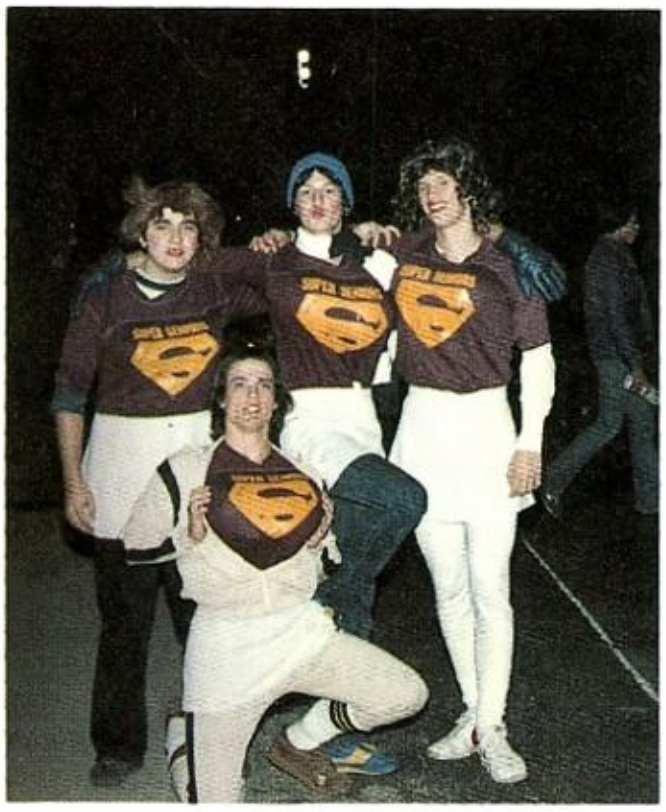
line to line, both seniors and juniors are to play.

watching their teammates with victory in the air — seniors.

loss of yardage and a struggle to keep balance— sherri luehr.



derrick dolls they are not — robert alvarez, curtis hall, scott schumacher and mark bias.

showing grace, the junior cheerleaders stack up in stunt.

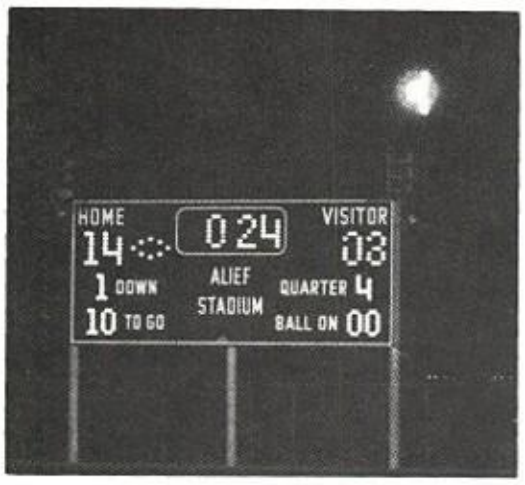
name that tune? — ram band.

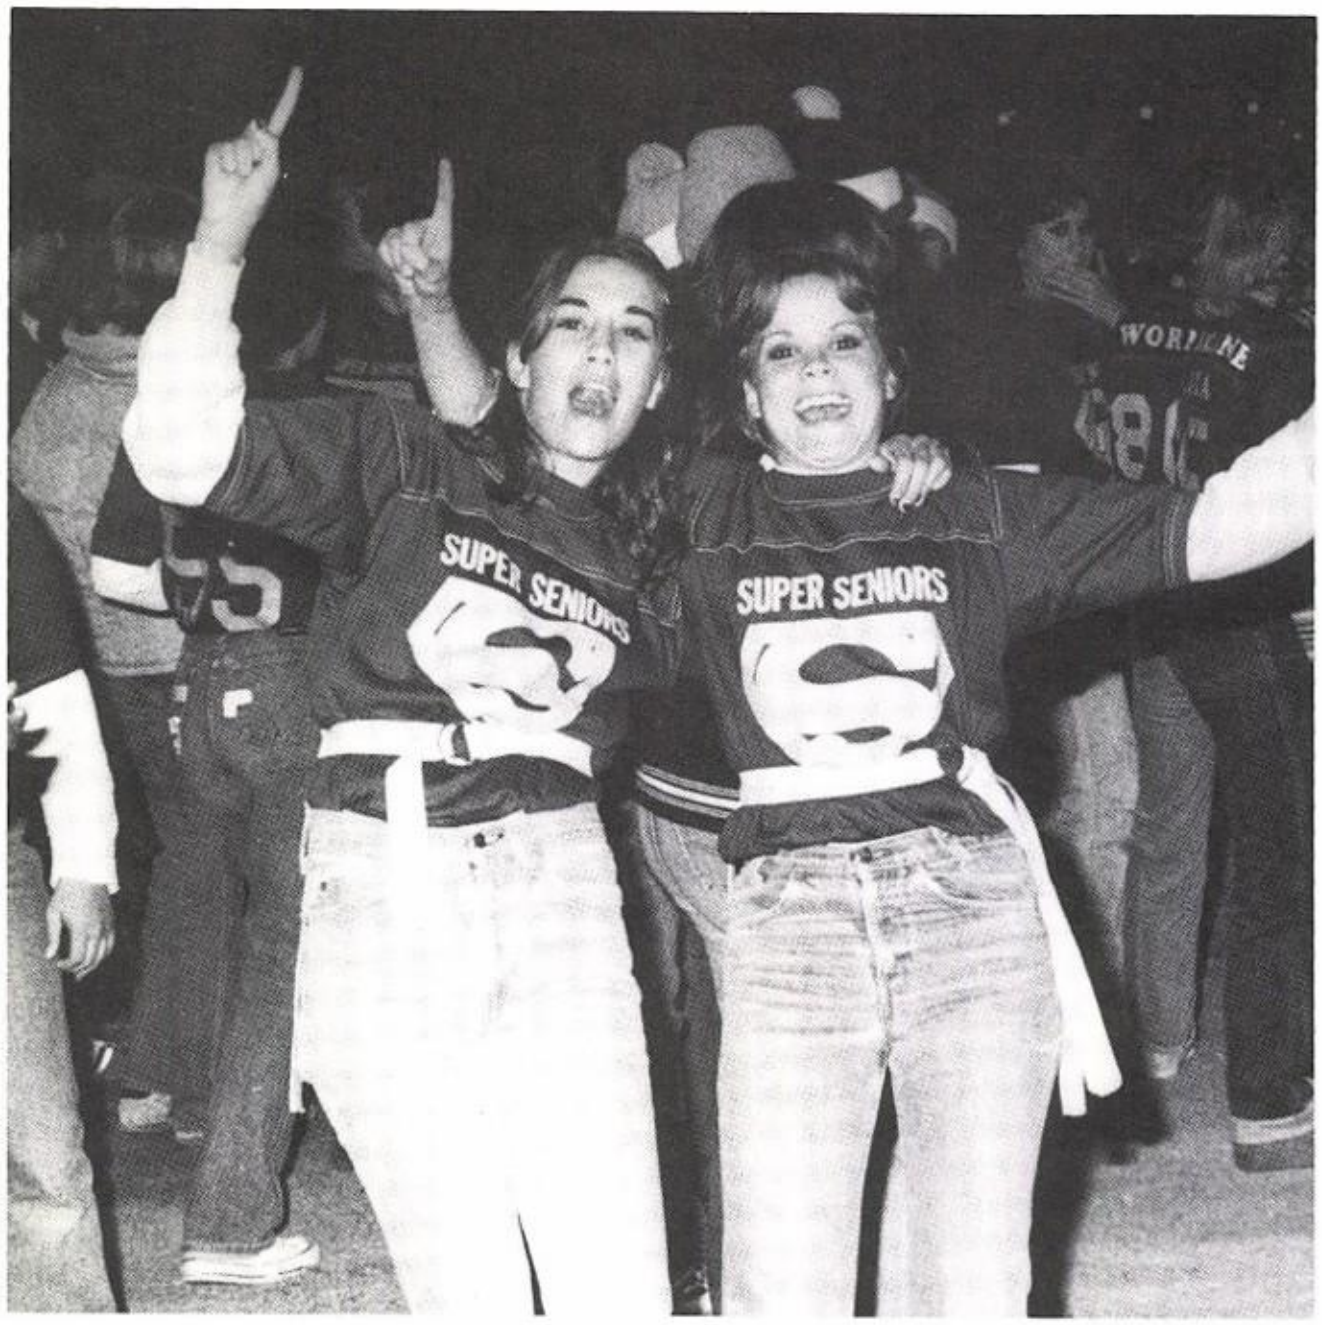
charging through the spirit poster, the junior team gets rowdy for the game.

on november 30 the third annual powder puff game took place. as the night grew dim and the locker rooms were filled with chants of "let's kill 'em" from both teams, the players came running out on to the field ready for action. during the first quarter, sherri luehr passed to dana mattox to put the seniors on the scoreboard. second quarter was scoreless and the teams went into their locker rooms with the score seniors 8 and juniors 0. the wacky band and the blue bombers provided the half time entertainment. the teams came back on the field with one thing on their minds — it was time to score and win the game. as third quarter time ticked away, laura wright scored to put the juniors on the scoreboard. in the fourth quarter, the seniors felt the clinch that the juniors had once felt earlier in the game. with one minute left in the game, vicki kite broke through the junior defense and the seniors won the game with a score of 14-8. all in all the game was a lot of fun, even though it got a little rough.



final score

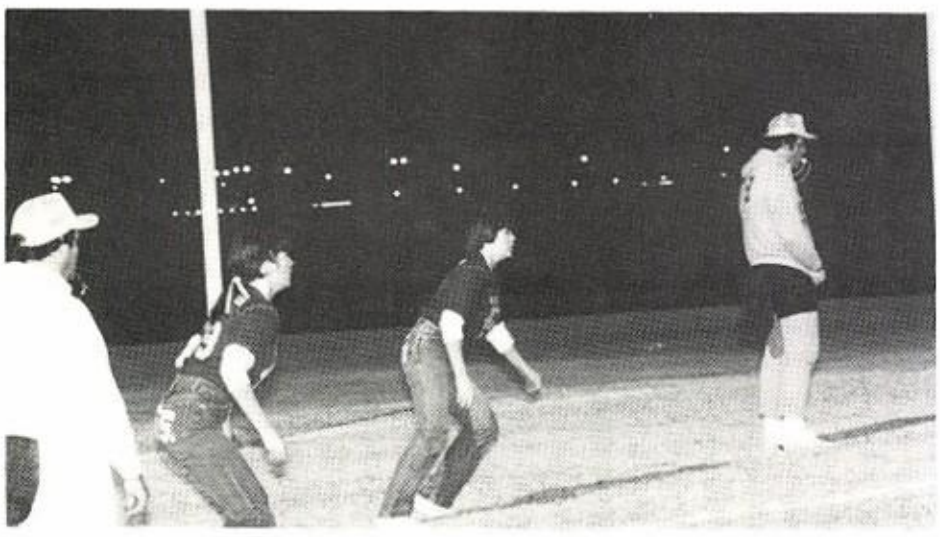
before the half, sponsor ms. lowery and coach dennis kuithe watch seniors move on down the field.



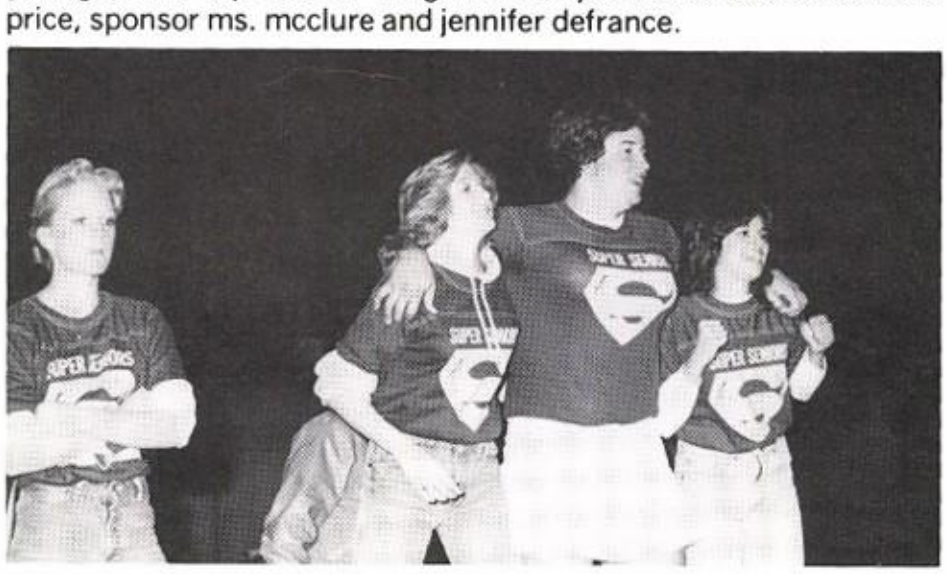
we're #1 — you know that's true — donna coston and cindy stokes.

doing high kicks to keep warm? — powder puff cheerleaders.

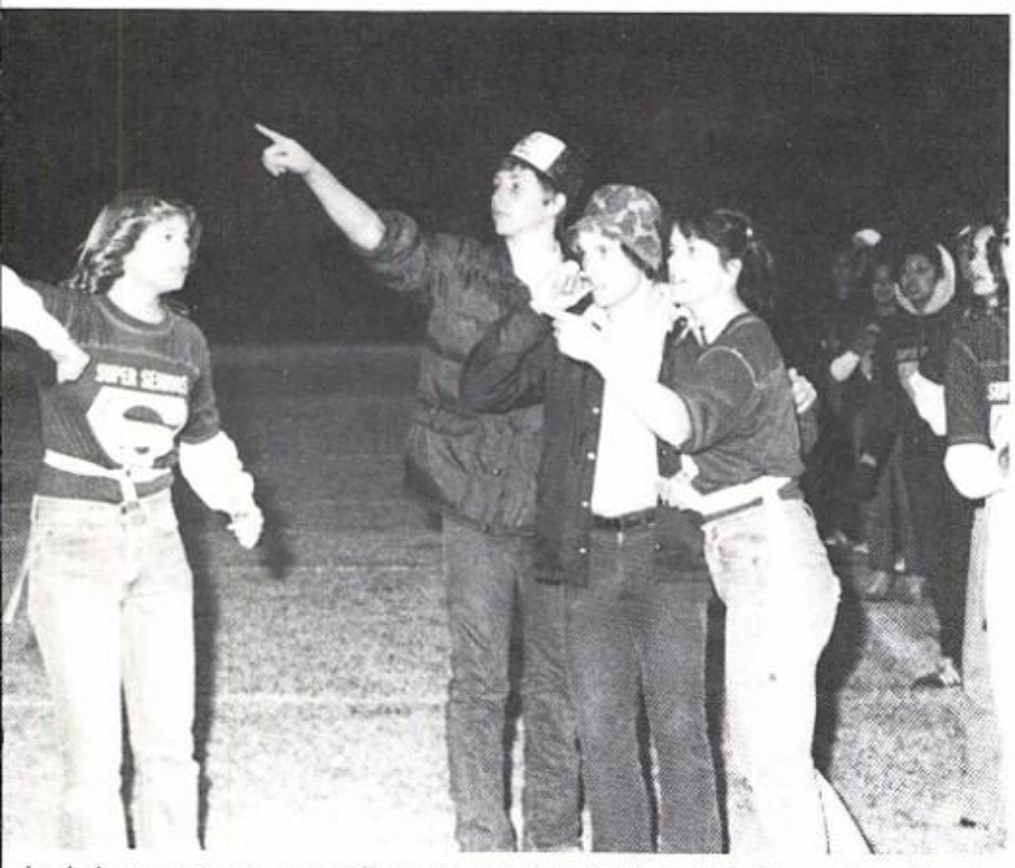
yelling at the top of their lungs for the juniors to score are linda price, sponsor ms. mcclure and jennifer defrance.



watching the juniors as they start to run their offense — cheryl clepper and leslie bowland.



poor marky haskett feels left out as dennis gavlik keeps treonne blair and jill wagner warm.

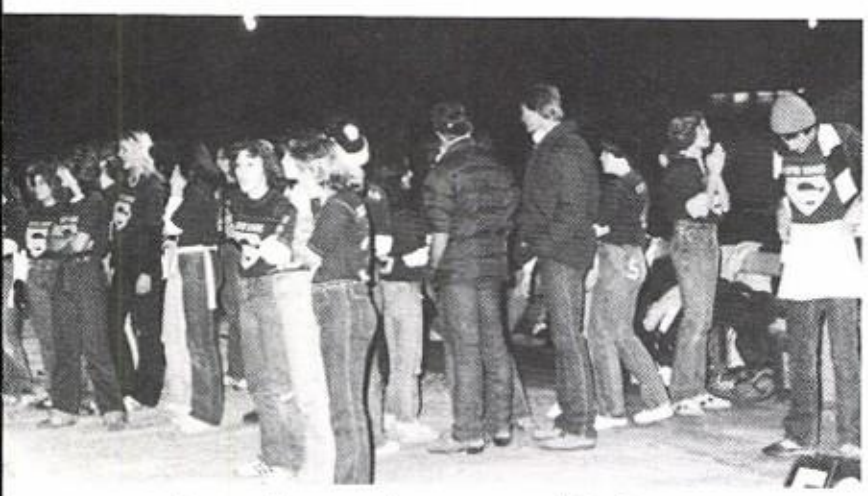


look how can we get a first down with field position? — sherri luehr, frank teers, kerry dale and vicki kite.

holding the ball tightly and surrounded by seniors, laura wright gains yardage.

wacky band performs at half time.

top speed and an open field is the key as vicki kite runs to score.



prayers and promises made as second half soon begins — seniors.

little legs but fast — zoryena cadungog.

not too happy with the penalties called — robin trosclair and lori weaver.

godspell,

an outstanding debut

pocahontas piper pipes for her pals. — dana rodgers the drama club didn't need any signs, they were heard loud and clear.

"ready for another game of duck, duck, goose?" — mike robinson chorus member gib gibson shows off his other talent.

watch a pro do it the right way — tracy ray.

superman takes a time out to help the little lady. — mark bias and lisa loomis this is as easy as a song and a dance says mark bias to sam doolittle.

i wonder what would happen if i turned on the blue light instead of the red one. — neil starks listen mark if you don't get your lines straight! — sam doolittle to mark bias godspell, elsik's first musical, was truly the drama department's "christmas gift to alief." combining the talents of the band, choir, and the art departments the december 7 presentation delighted the student body.

the play, based on the gospel of matthew, was built by hours and hours of practices. the days and days of hard practices payed off as their stage calls turned into standing ovations. elsik's first musical was no doubt a huge success.

some elsik students use their spare time by working part-time jobs. the places where most students work are westwood mall, grocery stores, drug stores, and k-mart. most students like their jobs and love making the money. with the high prices of gas and clothes, students really feel like they're helping out their families.

each year as we enter the last months of school, students anticipate many upcoming activities. probably the one most looked forward to is the freshman sale. the gym is crammed to full capacity with anxious upperclassmen, eager to begin their bidding. nervous groups line up as they prepare to enter the center of the gym. ms. contine, our auctioneer for the past two years, starts off the event as she opens bidding on the first group. the following day freshmen are corralled by their masters doing a variety of tasks, such as; carrying books, kissing feet, escaping air raids, giving punk rock concerts, and more. although this event can be a little embarassing, the freshmen class members have lots of fun and add more money to their prom fund.

students always seem to divide themselves into groups, and one of the bigger cliques is the kikkers. many of elsik's kikkers spend their saturday nights at simonton, where they watch an exciting, dangerous rodeo and stay for the dance afterwards. the guys frequently participate in "hard money" and other rodeo contests, while the girls cheer them on. many practice riding skills at circle 8 on tuesday and thursday afternoons. one can easily spot them because of their western attire. the kikkers make up a large portion of our school, and each one will tell you — "i'm proud to be a kikker!"

after four years of studying and hard work, the 1980 senior class, composed of 357 students, graduated. the class ranks, which were based on the grade point averages accumulated from ninth grade through the second quarter of the senior year, were given out in late march. one person with a perfect 4.0 average is usually chosen as valedictorian; however, this year the senior class had four valedictorians: donna barr, anil sinha, shawn smith, and david tsen — all with perfect averages. the other six people that ranked in the top ten were (in the order of their rank) peter ku, robert alvarez, valerie summers, charles lundquist, steve shrout, and donn friedman.

"when i read some of the rules for speaking and writing the english language correctly . . . i think

henry d. thoreau
even though this quote is realistic to many students while they are struggling to remember grammatical do's and don'ts, the final results are beneficial not only in college but later on in one's career. the elsik english department offers several courses focused on building better writing skills and a stronger vocabulary; however, there are also several courses designed to expand the uses of writing, such as creative writing. the more advanced literature classes are great for college bound students.

the history department at elsik is one of the more active departments. students learn about life styles of countries and nations as well as their politics. in american and world history there are many opportunities to taste foreign and early american foods. the classes also keep up to date on the current events to make students aware of the future. elsik seniors take government and economics to learn more about our government. also the students learn about the stock exchange and how to keep accurate records of their earnings.

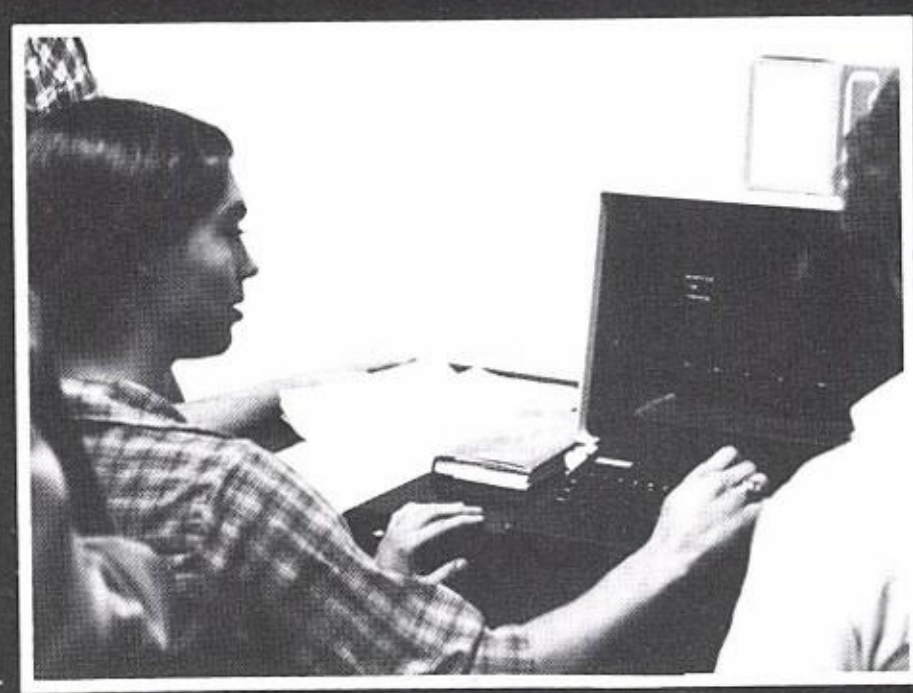
this is an example of a problem that math doesn't solve; however, in the math department students of all ages work diligently at trying to solve these types of problems. one of the most frequently asked questions of the math students is "why?"



"how do you make this thing play games?" asks guy mclaren the science department has many different subjects. elsik students study physical science, biology, and chemistry. in first year biology, they dissect earthworms and fetal pigs. this year in biology II, they observed the lives and mating habits of fruit flies, then they went on to dissect dogwood sharks and alley cats. in introduction to chemistry and chemistry students learn all about the labs and how to work with the chemicals in them. environmental science students learn about plants and how to care for them. with all the science courses elsik offers its students, another einstein may pass through elsik's doors.

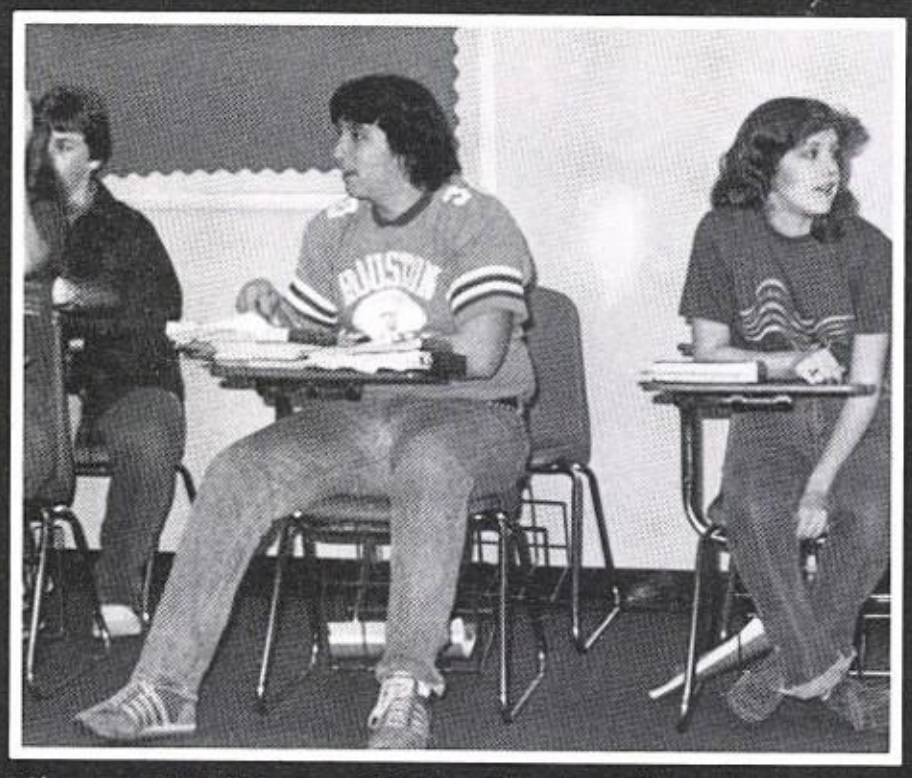
speakin'

"quiero ir a mi casa (i want to go home!)" chasie hawk and jane martz

" there is no one able to speak who cannot learn some portion . . . of another language, and . . . put it to use."

mario pei

apparently both the students and teachers involved in the elsik/hastings foreign language department agree with the above statement. foreign languages are the most chosen elective courses offered here. spanish, french, and german are all very popular and offer fun classes as well as useful tools for later use among the activities participated in are special holidays particular to each country, such as oktoberfest for the germans and dia de los reyes magos for the spanish. dialogues are performed and discussed to orientate the student with conversational abilities. the culture and history of each of the languages' mother countries is also studied. but the main result these courses are trying to achieve is being able to understand and use the language when needed, since in our modern world it is becoming increasingly important to have a second language.



"if you can't talk in spanish, then i'm not talking to you!" kelly macdonald to roy schneider the drama department, led by mrs. leathers, helps aspiring actors and actresses to learn the necessary tricks of the trade, such as controlling stage fright, improvisation, and use of the imagination. drama Ia introduces students to all phases of the theater — stage makeup, costume, stage lighting, and set design. specialization comes in the following classes: 1b teaches character acting; 2a develops the stage voice; 2b centers in on the technical aspect of the theater; 3a teaches directing; and 3b helps students with putting together a portfolio and auditioning.

speech classes, taught by mrs. starnes, involve many interesting as well as practical lessons for the student interested in speech making. speech 1 involves group discussions and public speaking. the groups research and try to find solutions to such major problems as abortion and the laws regulating it. other speech classes, which go through 4a, include lessons in parliamentary procedure, and interpretive reading (prose and poetry). and, of course, every student learns from experience, because everyone has to perform.

physical education classes, an important part of the required curriculum, offered recreation in many ways for elsik students during the 1979-1980 school year.

the regular p.e. classes participated in many sports. among these were archery, badmitton, gymnastics, bowling, softball, basketball, track and field events, tennis and others. individual sports classes were elective courses in which students participated in off-campus sports. also, athletic p.e. classes were held during off-seasons for elsik athletes. these were used to keep the players in top physical and mental condition, while teaching them new skills.

health, another required course at elsik, is only one quarter long and can be taken any grade level. concentration was placed on familiarization with drugs, alcohol, tobacco, diseases and disorders, sex education, personality development. according to mrs. contine, a teacher here since the opening of elsik, the purpose of the course is "to teach students about physical, as well as mental problems that may occur to them throughout their lifetime." so, as you can see, physical education and health are necessary parts of our curriculum.

art classes, located between elsik and hastings, are always popular elective courses for many students. besides being fun, art also provides a future career for some young hopefuls. classes cover everything from a very general survey of all aspects of art to specializing in different sections. art Ia-Ib is a basic coverage of major topics, including drawing to painting, lettering to paper maché, ceramics to textile drawing, with the second quarter geared more toward painting and color theory. this course of study continues on through IIa and IIb. then with the promotion to art III, a variety of unique course selections is offered. included in these individualized classes are understanding and working with ceramics; textile design and techniques; drawing and painting with an assortment of materials; commercial artistry such as lettering, illustration, and cartoons; and finally, jewelry. but art isn't just all learning, it also involves competition in such events as the houston livestock show and rodeo art contest, the scholastic art awards contest, and the finger's interior design contest.

journalism and mass media are active courses to take in high school. the journalism classes are fun learning classes. students write news and feature stories and learn the mechanical aspects of the school paper, the rampage. journalism also includes the production of the yearbook, ramblings. students sell ads, draw layouts, and meet deadlines. students also learn to use cameras and to develop pictures.

in mass media students learn about public relations. they also learn all about the television industries, the news, movies and advertising. they learn how to draw animated cartoons. elsik students enjoy working in these classes and might even consider the media as a career.

on may 12, 1980, the annual awards asembly and national honor society (nhs) new member installation was held. it began with a candlelight ceremony to induct the new nhs officers and members. next, mrs. o'donnell presented honor collars to seniors who had kept their academic records up to the nhs standards. each department from elsik then gave awards (such as medals, certificates, and scholarships) to the students they considered outstanding. the teachers of the year were then announced: ninth grade — mrs. contine and mr. kapchinski; tenth grade — coach pless and coach copley; eleventh grade — mrs. gattis and mrs. k. stephenson; twelfth grade — mr. engel, mrs. graessle, and mrs. lowery. the ceremony was then concluded and a short reception followed.

as individuals we were accused of having no class, as a football team we fought endless odds, but as a school we held together.

through the first nine games of the 1979-80 football season, our varsity football team could not manage to put a single point on the scoreboard.

on friday, november 16, 1979, the date of game ten against our arch rivals from the school next door, alief hastings; the rams were ready. starting from their own 45 yard line, they began to move. five plays later, jr. quarterback, parris watson sprinted 29 yards wide right and out of the history books. ecstacy resulted! fans poured out of the stands. for one moment the eyes of the entire state were on the alief scoreboard, which flashed: elsik 7 — hastings 0. eventually hastings scored and took the lead, ending elsik's fantasy of victory.

dennis kuithe's 86 yard touchdown run was elsik's final flash of glory. this game marked the end of a winless season. the mighty rams had gained a reputation as competitors, well coached but outmanned. as coach bryant said, "we impress winning. i don't enjoy getting beat, but we've tried to impress upon the kids that if they go out and do their best, then they're winners." the student body was behind the rams up to the final tick of the clock. the rams, the band, the revelliers, the parents, and the booster clubs never gave up hope. the mighty rams never quit; for even though the scoreboard could never show it, the mighty rams were winners.

despite constant effort by the coaches and players, the junior varsity football team came up on the short end of the stick in eight consecutive games. even though the offensive and defensive teams gave 110%, as their coaches demanded, it seemed as though the jr. varsity rams were not meant to score, much less win. but about halfway through their tough season, they scored, not one, but two touchdowns. the team went wild with emotional excitement. after that game the rams continued to score but they had no wins to tuck under their belt. their last game of the season, against katy, the ram defense allowed no drives by the katy mustangs. the mustangs scored after recovering an elsik fumble and on a kickoff return. the rams' first win kept the fans on their feet. there was an emotional celebration in the locker room after they finally earned what they had deserved all year. after seeing their ability when they beat katy, it's obvious that they have potential for next year on varsity level.

"not another free throw!" — dennis kuithe starting from scratch with only one returning varsity letterman, the alief elsik rams surprised everyone but themselves finishing this season with 16 wins. one high point of the season was winning a trophy in college station at the a&m cons. tourney.

starting the second half of district with wins over branch, woods, and memorial catapulted the rams into first place. they maintained this position for three weeks until a six point loss to westchester brought them back to earth. still contending for the second half title, alief pride received a blow as the rams lost to the bears of hastings by three points. in this game the rams led until the final quarter when the bears attempted 11 free throws to the rams two. thus all the dreams, hard work, and pain the basketball rams had gone through; all the dedication and love went for zilch. the district crown slipped out from between the rams hoofs by the reach of a zebra's whistle. yet life went on; the rams were winners. as the season ended, it was said, "we were teammates because we were friends, not friends because we were teammates, and this kinship will live on."

on september 1, 1979, the a.i.s.d. natatorium was expected to open its doors, but plagued by problems, it was delayed until after the new year. even then, the first elsik swim team was unable to use the pool because of the lack of heat. but these difficulties did not daunt most of our swimmers. "we lost over half of the kids that first tried out for the pleasure to work with," said coach fick. they were limited to training with weights and working on "dryland drills" throughout the winter. "it payed off, but at the time it seemed worthless — we wanted to be in the water," said lora parker. and apparently it did pay off, because at their first meet, the elsik swimmers splashed to a victory over their arch rival — hastings. the next week the district meet was held and again the rams shone with guy mcclaren, boys' team captain, qualifying for regionals in two events. this year, of course, was only a beginning — just wait until next year.

the elsik diving team, affected by the a.i.s.d. natatorium's delay, did well on the whole during the season. the team, which was approximately fifty percent smaller than it was when first formed, was forced to use dry-land drills and trampoline exercising to train during the fall months. then, the trampoline privileges were taken away because of insurance difficulties. "the divers had only two and a half weeks to learn dives and to develop the timing and form needed to be competitive," claimed coach lieber. but even with extremely lowered morale and little experience, the ram divers competed against hastings — and won. the team is not expected to grow much larger next year, but less difficulties will surely result in a much improved diving squad.

running the final lap kristi skinner sprints her way to the finish line.

a mr. pibb and a smile. — karen kane, vicki mata, and brenda bragg district champions: a phrase muttered by player and coaches alike as a goal, each time a sports season begins. 1980 marked the first time an elsik varsity team from a major sport could be labeled by this term when their season came to a close. coach marti toulmin's ramrunners sacrificed, "strained, and pained" through a tough season which included meets at the astrodome and texas southern university. the underdog ramrunners captured the district crown from the grasps of the odds-on favorites spring branch by two points (99-97) to bring pride to all of ram country: all of alief.

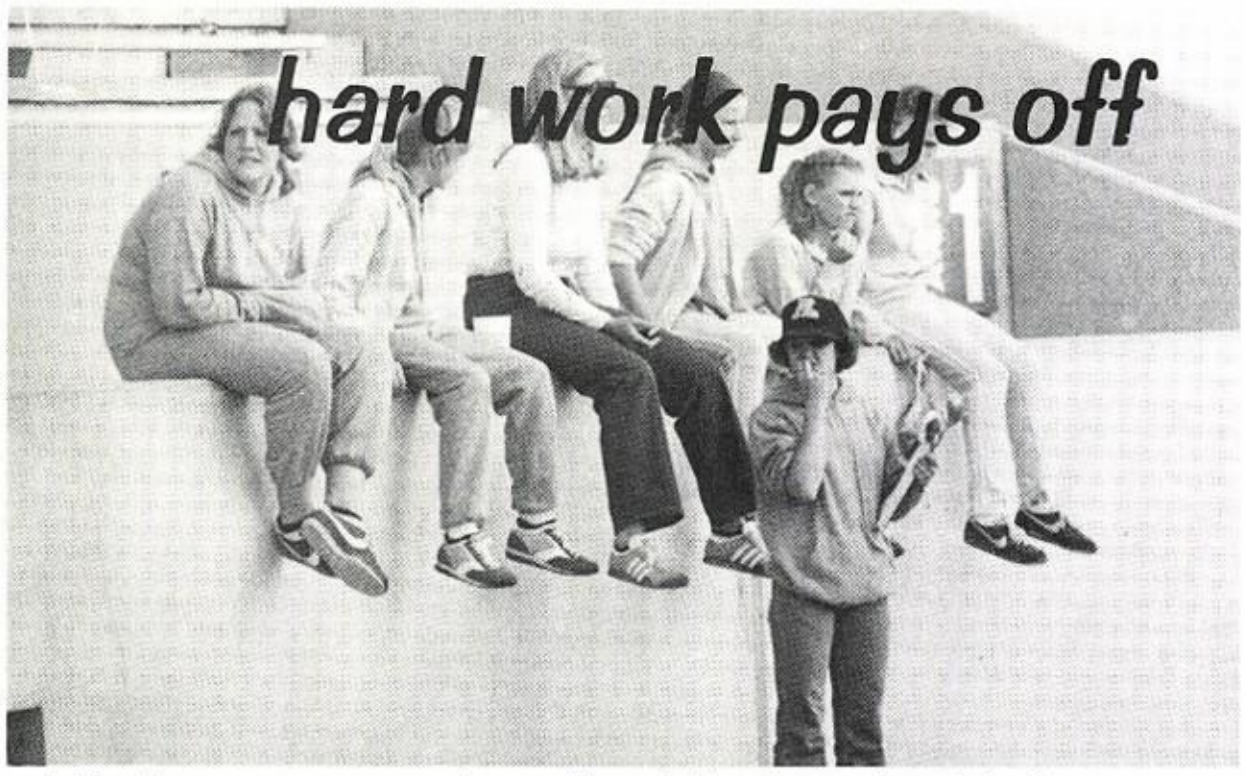
hard work pays off



watching the ramrunners move: kara cudler, missi steele, coach toulmin, donna morgan, mary lenart, diana adams, laurie boydstun.

spinning to victory: leah bennet sprinting to the tape: laura wright hitting a forehand on the run — amy reynolds.

every year elsik faces several teams in the hope of winning the district crown. elsik high school, not to be outdone, compiled a team of enthusiastic and dedicated players. with the rising popularity of the game, many new faces, as well as old, were seen on the courts. luckily, the winter of 79 permitted the team to practice and play often. everyday at 2:30, one could find the team practicing everything from basic shots to complex strategy. the year as a whole was very successful, and provided excellent competitive experiences.

He may look like any other insurance man, but he isn't.

His concern for his Clients and friends is genuine. Sixteen years in his profession has taught him that by helping others he is helped. In those 16 years, he has built a reputation of service to his Clients unsurpassed by few in his field. From helping teachers with tax shelters to guaranteeing infants their insurability, Emmett O'Donnell, as an Independent Agent, works for no company.....only for YOU.

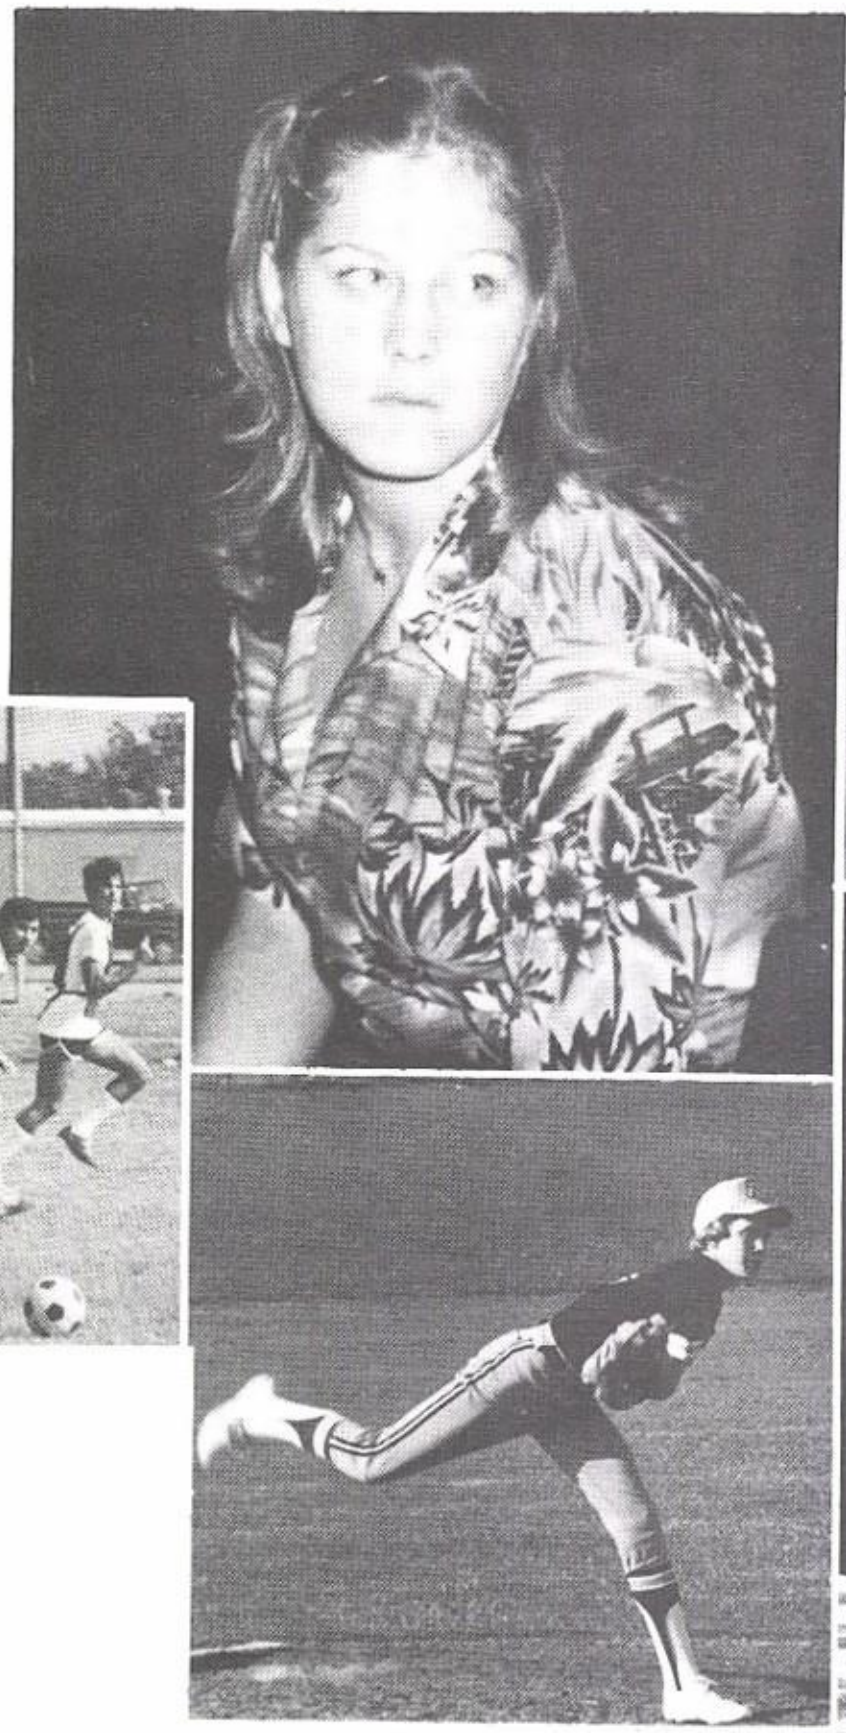
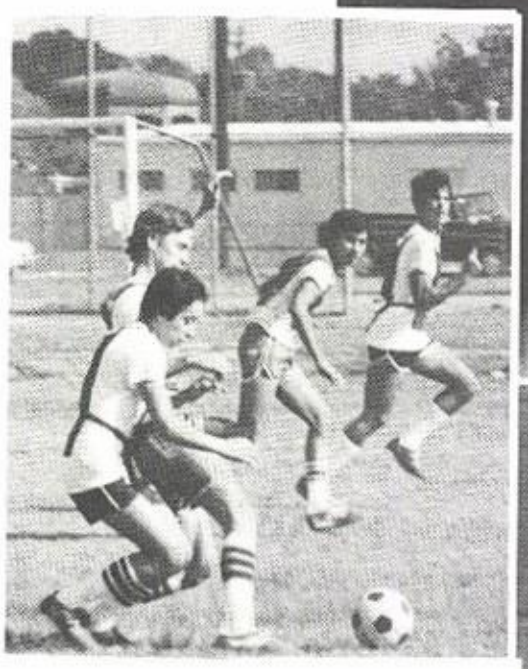
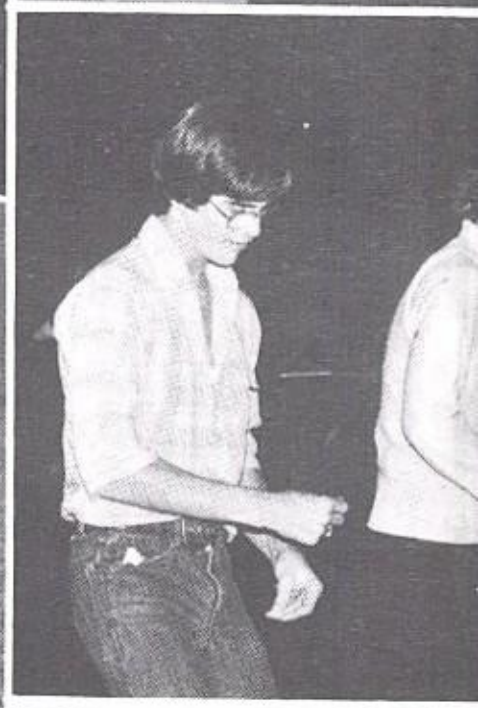
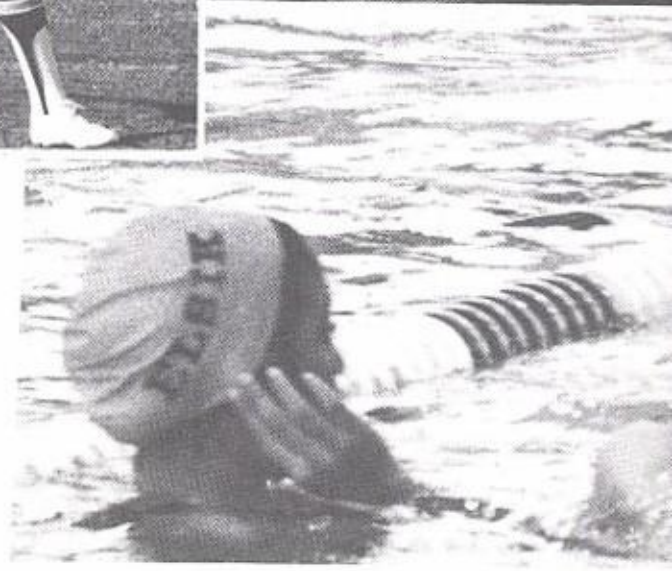
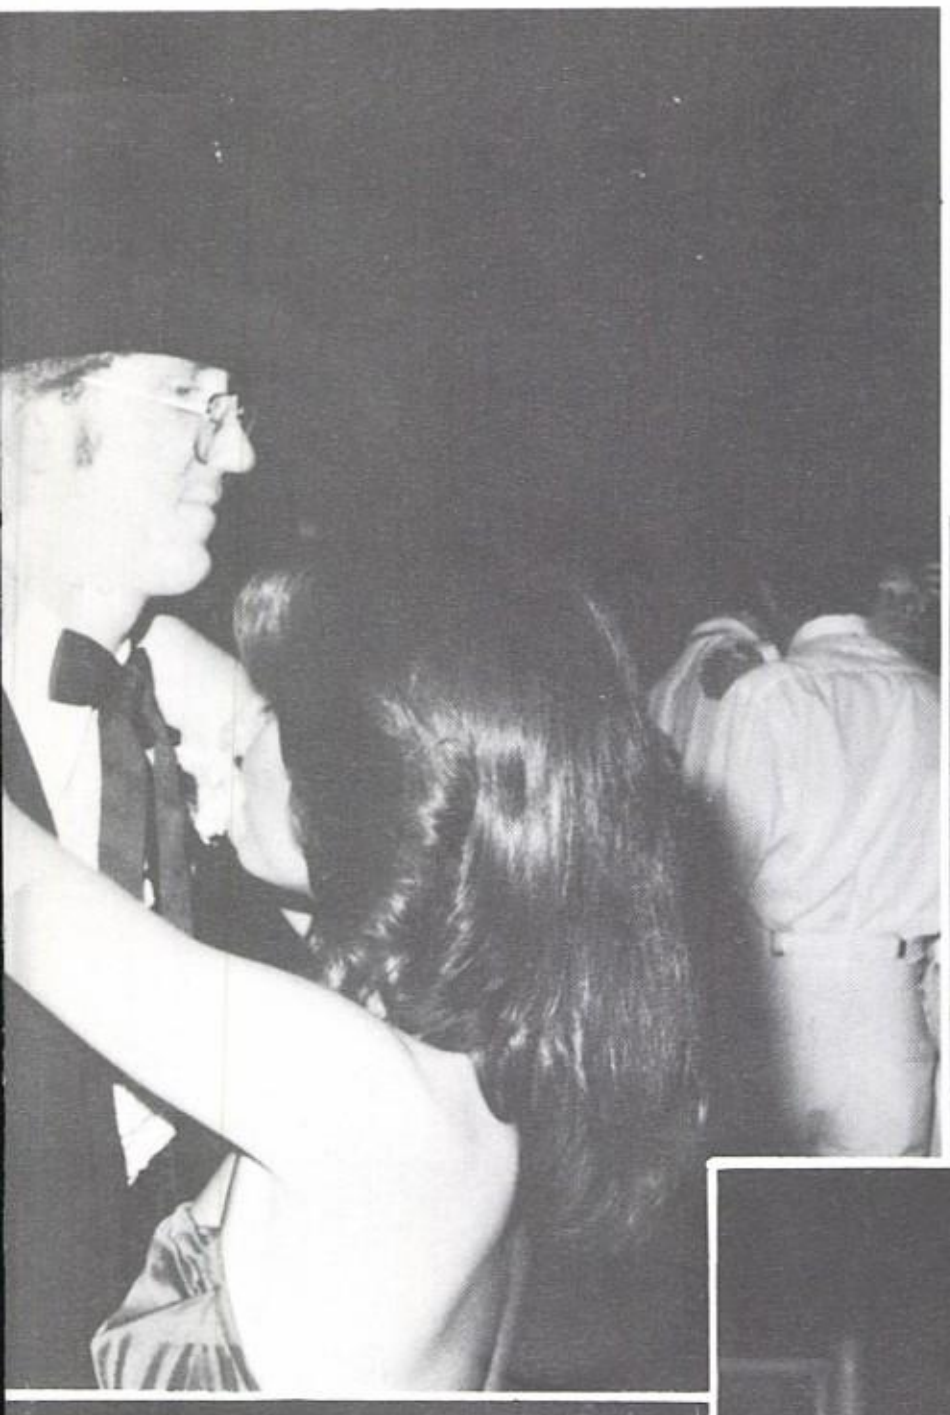
the ram power . . .

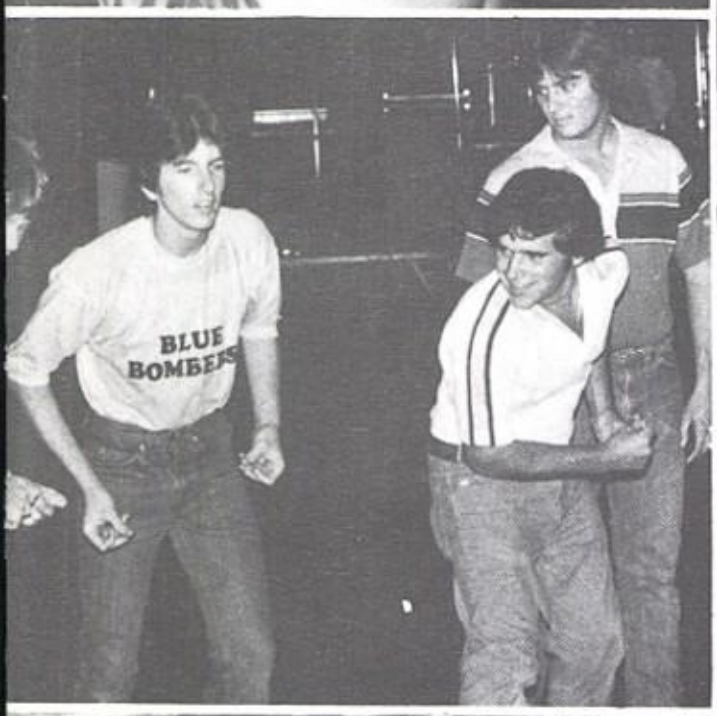












after a year filled with disappointments, the rams performed with determination making everyone see the value in unity and belief in self. together the rams overcame obstacles and gave elsik high school a reputation, one described as a never yielding effort that has gained the rams respect throughout the district. reflecting on the year, it is clear that you, rams, were on the move.

Dear Julie,
You are very nice girl & hope we get to know you better
Good luck in your letter years
Have sweet
Love
Steph

Julie,
haven't known
for very long, but think you're a sweetheart! I hope we have fun in Home-Ec and learn to change dirty diapers the right way.
Stay sweet,
Love ya,
Sil
